TFS' Chief Executive Officer awarded "Man Of The Year" by Ernst & Young

The Chief Executive Officer at TFS Trial Form Support International AB, Mr. Daniel Spasic, was on February 4th, 2010 awarded the national Ernst & Young award "Man Of The Year".

The ceremony was held February 4th in Stockholm, Sweden, at the City Hall, also known for hosting the annual Nobel Banquet every year. More then 700 delegates attended the Swedish national Ernst & Young awards in the four categories; "Entrepreneur Of The Year", "Man Of The Year", "Woman Of The Year" and "Best International Growth".

Ernst & Young "Entrepreneur Of The Year" is one of the world's premier distinctions for entrepreneurs. It is the first international distinction for entrepreneurs with clear visions and strong management skills building and growing successful companies. The competition is performed on a regional, national and international level in more then 135 cities in 50 countries. The entrepreneurs are being assessed by an independent jury after the criteria; entrepreneurial spirit, financial development, strategic orientation, global influence, innovation and personal integrity and influence. The competition started in the USA in 1986. In Sweden the first nominations and distinctions where given in 1995.

Between May 15th and September 15th, 2009 approximately 300 entrepreneurs in Sweden where nominated to the distinction. The awards are personal with the main purpose to raise attention of the person behind a company's success and increase the interest for entrepreneurship and enterprising.

The justification of the award "Man Of The Year" received by Mr. Daniel Spasic was the following; "Daniel Spasic is operating in a complex line of business that is characterized by high demands in quality and competence. His business has been growing substantially since the foundation and is today the largest private European Contract Research Organization. Daniel Spasic is young, dedicated and a good role model for future entrepreneurs".
